Some Interesting News from Various Points in Texas.

The Governors and Labor Commissioners of Kansas and This State Refuse to Interfere—A Masked Man Warns an Engineer in Texas—Bridges Burned Near Marshall, and Dallas—The Knights Denounced Outrages and Offer Their Services to the United States Marshal.

The local strikers are resting. Their attitude is one of expectancy. They are awaiting news from Kansas City and hope to hear favorable reports when Master Workman Powderly either reaches here or communicates with the Knights here. Accommodation trains are running uninterruptedly and no attempt has been made to move freight. There has been odisturbance of any kind. Mr. Powderly, it is generally understood, is in communication with First Vice-President Hoxle, and the latter, who refuses to say anything to reporters to-day, is probably considering propositions which have been submitted by Mr. Powderly as the ultimatum of the delegated Knights assembled at Kansas City this morning and arrived at the conclusion that they had better not interfere. The news from fexas is all ittle storny. More bridges has been made were a marshall. At the Depot. Matters were again very quiet at the Union Depot to-day. There were a few strikers sprinkled about the platform in little groups conversing among themselves, but they made no attempt to prevent the running of the Kirkwood accommodation trains of the Missouri Pacific, which were all being sent out to-day. The 8 o'clock train and 9.52 train both left on time, and the railroad officials anticipate no trouble in running the others. It is probable that the 8.20 p. m. train will again be the last accommodation sent to-day. General Superintendent Kerrigan of the Gould Southwestern system, Superintendent Dickinson of the Union Depot and Bridge Companies, and lesser lights, were about the depot as usual, but nothing is said about running freight and it is not probable that any attempt will be made to send any out. onversing among themselves, but they made they are reported as saying that they would return to work.

Several firemen, among them a member of the Brotherhood Grievance Committee, said that no such visit had been paid to Mr. Bartlett. "The firemen are as firm to-day as ever in their sympathy for these men," said the committeeman, "and they don't intend to desert them. Mr. Bartlett will have to square a few things with us before this is over. We are stopped by these guards on the crossing, and were so stopped before we had taken any decided action. We were not even asked to go out on our engines, but Furlong's men were put in our places. We have no reason or desire to send a committee to Mr. Bartlett. As far ast thas been possible for him to do it, he has insulted our men."

A fireman named Wheat was found in a group of his brethren indignarily denying that representations had been made to the master mechanic as coming from his brotherhood. He said he was the party who had been talking to Mr. Bartlett, but merely in a friendly way. He was going to follow the instructions of his chief, Mr. Sargent. That gentleman himself had said that when police were needed on an engine it was certainly not a safe place for a fireman or any one else.

Sometime early this morning a very curious notice was posted up on several of the telegraph poles in the vicinity of the Relay Depot, and attracted a great deal of attention from the railroad men. The notice was written in hierographs that looked liked Chinese, and it was supposed to reveal something that was supposed to reveal something that was going to happen on the third moon and nineteenth day at 12 o'clock. The idle men around the Relay were exceedingly anxious to find out what it meant, and a proposition by one of the crowd that a Chinese interpreter be sent for and a translation secured met with approval. Accordingly several of the men walked down into town and induced one of the "Chinese voters," of whom there is always quite a number in town just before a municipal election, to go back with them to where the notice was posted and interpret it. At the Iron Mountain Yards. Everything is quiet at the Iron Mountain reight Depot to-day not an engine being on the tracks, nor has there been one since Monday. There were none of the strikers around and the place had a deserted look. No freight has been shipped since the 6th.

I am very anyous to see this strike settled, and I hop that he sell be yassed which will forever put an end to the wrangle between capital and labor. The question will have to be handled by Congress asoner or later. As chairman of the Labor Committee, the House looks to me to propose some measure bearing upon the labor question and I have been giving it my close attention and study for a number of months past. So far, I have been unable to discover a remedy. Voluntary measures are too likely to be in operative while compulsory measures are foreign to our laws. The eight-hour, law and in fact all the labor laws now before the House, will be passed with little difficulty.

Sergeant Woodlock has the night watch at the Pacific yards. He is relieved at 11 a. m. by Sergeant Sommers. Everything was stagnant at the Ewing avenue crossing to-day, but the strikers keep confident and good-natured.

New Orleans, March 19.—There is absolutely no change in the situation up to 1 p. m. At Gouldsboro, where the Texas & Pacific Depot is, everything is quiet, and business is going on as usual. The strikers are awaiting news from Hall. The general impression here is the solution will come in Hall's presenting his case to the Court. Gen. Sheldon says that the very first opportunity the receivers had to consider the grievances of the laborers was when the Gouldsboro committee called and spoke of Hall's case. The receivers then taking cognizance of the existence of the differences, could only refer them to the courts and suggest that Hall should lay his case there, as that was the tribunal of every citizen. The receivers did not desire to coerce the men, but sympathized with them. He frequently repeats that the questions of fact involved in Hall's disoharge are subject only to judicial inquiry, as the receivers are not a court. He looks upon the matter as now virtually settled.

and the men would soon be reached and that the matter would settle itself.

Mr. Powderly, at the close of the morning session of the Knights of Labor conference, said he had not received a reply to his message sent to Mr. Hoxie last night. In any event, he intended togo to St. Louis and call upon Mr. Hoxie, as the business interests of the country rendered imperative an early settlement of the difficulties, and it was his purpose to do all in his power toward a reconciliation between the strikers and officials. Nothing of general interest occurred at the meeting this morning.

They find that at the present they are not prepared to meet the combined strength of the Knights of Labor or resist their demands, and that in order to protect themselves they would have to effect a combination of the various roads. With this end in view, a meeting of the superintendents of the various roads within the locality of the Central Traffic Association (all roads east of the Mississippi River and wast of the western termini of the trunk lines) was held in Cincinnati last Monday, and the present situation regarding impending labor troubles fully discussed. The opinion was unanimously expressed that the present situation is the most critical since the railroads first came into existence in this country, and that only united and harmonious relations between all the roads could prevent serious results. An organization was effected, and stated meetings will be held regularly, in order to be able to meet any labor troubles that might arise within the Central Traffic Association.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 19, 1886.

To the Chicens of the Chies of Dallas and Greenville, Hunt County, Tex.

No words of mine can sufficiently express my appreciation of the kind words of encouragement and the good advice contained in your dispatch. The present strike on our system was ordered by the officers of a secret organization because a neighboring railway in the control of the highest court in the land had seen fit to discharge one of their employes, and with no other complaint against the management of the Missouri Pacific, and without any warning or shadow of justification, the entire business of four States and one territory is completely paralyzed, and millions of resident citizens are deprived of the railway facilities on which their entire prosperity depends and to the enjoyment of which they have legal rights paramount to any secret organization, because their rights are secured to them by the laws of the land. The Missouri Pacific employs 14, 319 men. Of these, 3,717 only are concerned in the present strike, so that in addition to these 3,700 conspirators, who are, by force and intimidation, stopping our trains, thereby depriving the remaining 10,900 of their co-laborers of their daily earnings. Will not the public soon learn that it is they that pay the railway pay-roll; that the railway is its clearing-house to receive and distribute this fund, which is fully 60 per cent of the entire gross earnings of a railway? And when they do, they will probably find some method to regulate and control the labor engaged in railway transportation and thus prevent such strikes as the present one.

been generally known that ex-Minister Schenck, who has begn occupying a position in the State Department for some years past, in the State Department for some years past, was recently dropped from the Department rolls. Judge Schenck was appointed under the Hayes administration to supervise the publication of the law of Congress. The Department of State has, since the publication of the Revised Statutes begun, had charge of the publication of the laws. Congress appropriates a certain amount for this purpose and $3,000 of it goes annually to the person in charge of the work. He takes the laws as they are printed at the Public Printing-office, arranges them, makes an index and prepares the referthem, makes an index and prepares the references. Warner's Claims Bill.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

Washington, D. C., March 19.—Representative Warner of Missouri made a very strong appeal in the House yesterday for his bill to confer jurisdiction over private claims upon the Court of Claims. He dwelt upon the fact that these claims had accumulated in Congress until there were now before the Committee on Claims more bills than would be passed upon in the next twenty-five years, if the future is to be fudged by the next.

in the next twenty five years, if the future is to be judged by the past.

"At the last Congress," he said, "there were referred to the Committee on Claims, if my memory serves me aright, 918 claims. Of those 163 were reported back to the House, and only twelve ever received the concurrent action of both branches of Congress, so as to become laws. The aggregate amount appropriated in all bills of a private nature that passed the Congress was $24,844.09. It would be safe, sir, to state that the time consumed in the consideration of some one of these claims costs the government more than the entire amount appropriated to pay all the claims which are finally allowed by the government in any session."

THE SPLIT BETWEEN GLADSTONE AND CHAMBERLAIN BECOMING BITTER.

Probable Breakup of the Liberal Party-The New Canatian Steamship Line—Daring Attempt to Capture a Great-Grandson of Admiral Nelson—Socialistic Biot in Belgium-Foreign News.

Admiral Nelson-Socialistic Riot in Belgium-Foreign News.

At the hour for opening court this morning,

London, March 19.—It would be difficult to exaggerate the seriousness of the political risis. It is impossible to say what may not happen. The split between Gladatone and Morley, on the one hand, and Chamberialn on the other, is complete and bitter. The reason Chamberiain and Trevelyan have not publicly resigned is that ministers, on resignation, are entitled according to official etiquette to deliver speeches in the House of Commons declaring their reasons. This, in the present case, would necessarily involve a premature disclosure of Gladstone's scheme, which, of course, they have no right or wish to bring about. It is the present intention to hold a Cabinet council to morrow, when, probably, all will be decided. Chamberiain has been trying for some time past without success to secure pledges from the labor members to OPPOSE GLADSTONE.

There is a division of opinion at the headquarters of the Liberal caucus of Birmingham for Schnadhorst. Chamberlain's life-long henchman wrote yesterday to the anthor of a pamphiet advocating home rule, urging him to issue a cheaper edition for large popular circulation. Party feeling runs extremely high. I have never known such excitement and anxiety in political circles about domestic affairs. A complete break-up of the Liberal party is not by any means impossible.

Liberal party is not by any means impossible. The fact must not be concealed that Glad-stone's scheme, and with it all chance of home rule for the present, is in no slight danger. The Canadian Steamship Line. LONDON, March 19, 6 P. M .- I am able to state that the London Chamber of Commerce, the most important body of the kind in the United most important body of the kind in the United Kingdom, has this afternoon petitioned the Government to support the Canadian Pacific Steamship Line, and expressed the opinion that it is of great value to the imperial commercial interests of Great Britain. This is the new route between Australia and the East. I learn also that a series of conferences are being held between the Foreign office, the Colonial office and the Board of Trade on the international copyright, favoring the provisions of the Berne conference and extending greater advantages to the colonies.

DESPERATE BATTLE WITH BRIGANDS.

ROME. March 19 .- A sensation has been pro brigands to capture the great grandson of Admiral Nelson. The young gentleman is the Hon. Victor Albert Nelson Hood, son of the present and third hish Baron Bridgeport, whose father was the husband of Lady Charlotte, daughter of Admiral Nelson. His father is equery to the Queen and Duke of Bronte, in Soily. The family estate includes the estate containing the Castillo di Maniace, in Sieily, which was given by the King of Sieily to the admiral as a testimonial of gratitude for the victory of Trafalgar. Victor was residing in the castle when the brigands, who, it is believed, had plotted to take him a prisoner and hold him for a high ranson, made an attack in force upon the place. The servants were brave and soon rallied around their young master in defense of his person and estate. A desperate and prolonged battle ensued which resulted in the defeat and dispersal of the robbers, but only after many of them were disabled by wounds from further fighting. Four of the brigands were taken prisoners and turned over to the custody of the authorities. brigands to capture the Freat-grandson of Ad-

CHICAGO, March 19 .- Six days have passed since the horrible murder and robbery was ommitted on the Rock Island Railway, and yet apparently not even a clew to the perpe trators of the crime has been found. The en-deavors of the detectives seemed to be centered in the capture of Mike Humphreys and a manknown as "Texas." Last night it was found that Humphreys had been working in the Grape Creek mines for five week steadily, and was there the night of the robbery. "Texas," for whom the detectives were reported to be scourling the country, turned up at the Daily News office this morning. He denied having anything to do with the Rock Island robbery. THE MALLOY TRIAL. Day's Proceedings—Discovery of Damag ing Evidence Against Mrs. Malloy.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

Springfield, Mo., March 19.—As the Malloy-Lee-Graham trial progresses, interest increases, especially among the legal fraternity.

The leading criminal lawyer of the Southwest will soon connect himself with the prosecution, it is said, and there are already a half-dozen engaged in the defense.

A FEW EXTRACTS: SUNDAY, September 2 7, 1885.—Home all day. Left at 9 p. m. for Ft. Wayne. Mrs. Malloy at Fostoria.

Then follow entries of the trip to meet Mrs. Graham and the children. The last entry concerning the murdered woman is dated: WEDNESDAY, September 30.—Gave Sarah $10.
THURSDAY, October 1.—Peter H—, one day sowing wheat. E. M. at Fostoria; reached home at 4
a. m. with Charley and Ray. a. m. with Charley and ray.

In the back leaves there is some writing without reference to dates, and which seems to have been a written conversation between Graham and another party, probably Cora Lee, and is in the well-known handwriting of Graham. It reads:

Graham. It reads:

Got letter from Sarah just now; raises Cain a little; nothing serious though. I will have to go there and settle her at once. Will show you letter in the a.m.

It is developed that during the trial Mrs. Malloy, Cora Lee and Graham frequently carried on conversation in the above manner when in the presence of the other members of the family. There are many valuable points contained in the little book.

Statement of the Knights of Labor Organ-ization—Branch Federations Organized by Coal Miners—The Eight-Hour Movement— Coal Miners—The Eight-Hour Movement— Coal Miners—The Eight-Hour Movement— MILWAUKEE, WIS., March 19 .- The Trades

Assembly adopted a resolution last night de-nouncing the Knights of Labor for the intronouncing the Knights of Labor for the introduction of their cigar label in opposition to the wishes of the International Union. In speaking of the action of the Trades Assembly Robert Schilling, State Organizer of the Knights of Labor, said it amounted to nothing. The Union was in the wrong. The Knights had proposed that in shops in which the International label men were employed, the International label be used, and where Knights of Labor were employed the white label should be used, and in shops where both classes were employed, both labels should be put on the manufactured product. Both labels were meant for the same purpose, namely, to show that the cigars had been made by union men. All these propositions had been refused by the Internationolists.
The Trades' Assembly was not a representative assembly, and therefore its action was of little importance. Nearly every shop in the city employed Knights, but none of the larger shops would have anything to do with the International Union.

The peachblow vase came to Baltimore under the following circumstances, as detailed by Mrs. Walters: Shortly after the death of Mrs. Morgan, Mr. Walters offered the administrators of the estate $10,000 for the vase, and it was accepted. The article was put up at auction merely as a formality, the administrators supposing that the first bid of $10,000 would easily secure it. The competition which unexpectedly ensued surprised the administrators, but they were none the less compelled by their agreement with Mr. Walters to secure the vase for him. Allusion was made to the silverware scrape of Jaehne, in the role of a fence, that dragged Inspector Byrnes into unpieasant notoriety.

"Everything in its turn," said the Inspector, calmiy. "Before we get through with this, I will come pretty near showing up some things in connection with that matter that are not as plain to the public as they might be. That attack on me, I believe, was made by parties who were cognizant of what I was doing with Jaehne, to throw discredit on me or turn off the wrath to come. It didn't work and it won't now. When I am through with the more important matters on hand there will be time to show up that little affair in its true bearings on me.

Speculation was rife at police headquarters as to the identity of the lawyer employed, according to Jaehne, by his fellow-aldermen, to cover up their tracks by overhauling their private books and papers, and fixing them up to bear the scrutinizing gaze of the Senate Committee. Inspector Byrnes would not tell who he was, but said significantly that his turn would come in its season.

Said a long-headed politician who haunts the corridors at Police Headquarters: "There is another aspect to this thing you haven't thought of. If it turns out to involve the repeal of the Broadway franchise by the Legislature an enormous array of influence, political and otherwise, of power and wealth, will be put behind Jaehne to protect him from harm, and that same power will be exerted to intimidate Inspector Byrnes, on whose testimony all this now rests. What will be the resultas to Byrnes I believe it will accomplish nothing. His counsel, Mr. Newcomb, followed, and Alderman O'Nell, DeLacy and ex-Sheriff Bowe secured seats within the inner railing, Alderman Jaehne, far from trying to avoid the gaze of spectators, stood up by the Judge's bench, in full view of all, chatting cheerfully with his friends. Mr. Wm. D. Tallman was called and responded, but before his examination, Henry J. Hume, a brother-in-law of Parson's, was sworn. Mr. Tallman was then examined and said his wife was Alderman Pearson's sister. Pearson has three brothers—Alexander, William and James. Tallman's business in 1834 was gent's furishing goods, at the southwest corner of Sixth avenue and Twenty-fourth street. The firm's name was Pearson & Tallman. Pearson was then Alderman.

John Lloyd brings a peculiar action to-day against the Missouri Pacific. In October, 1884, William Nixon hired him to move a two-story house along Chouteau avenue where the tracks cross. The domicil was going along nicely when a locomotive ran into it, and so damaged it that Nixon had it torn down instead of moved. Lloyd was to get $175 for the moving, and as he lost the job he sues to recover that sum of the railway.

Warrants have been issued against the fol-lowing parties to-day: Two against Otto Neusel, one charging him with burglary in the second degree and iarceny, and the the second degree and larceny, and the other with petit larceny. In the former he is accused of stealing a lot of ready-made clothing, valued at $30, from George B. Wessels and in the other with the theft of a silver watch and plated chain, valued at $20, from John Stein.

Burglary in the second degree is the charge against Charles Smith, who is accused of breaking into the place of the Sisters of St. Joseph. Joseph.
Frank Jashenski is accused of abandoning his wife, Francis Jashenski.
Anna Simon and Aaron Wagelther are charged by Charles Frap of 818 Morgan Street, with assault and battery.
Fred Knapp is charged with stealing three razors from A. Guillerman.

How the Settlement Was Reached.

In connection with the suit of Gibson vs.

Mason, made the following statement to-day:
"In reference to the allegation in the suit of Mrs. D. M. Gibson vs. Chas. P. Mason let us say: The sale of Mrs. Gibson's interest in the stables was made after full investigation of the partnership affairs by two expert accountants in the interest of Mrs. Gibson. Her attorney, Jacob Kieln, was requested to examine the partnership affairs for minself. The settlement was in progress for more than two months, and Mr. Mason repeatedly offered to

This happened although England is not driving out gold by coining silver dollars. In spite of the Bland bill, in the same five years-1881 to 1885, inclusive—the net increase of our supply of gold, as shown by the Director of the Mint, has been $105,351,726. Our gain has been more than twice the amount of Great Britain's loss, and on the 20th of last June, according to Director Burchard's estimates, we had $626,422,646 of gold coin and bullion, while Great Britain and Ireland had only $583, Home rule, coupled with a gigantic experiment in the way of making the State the owner and lessor of all lands, would not be half as strong and popular as home rule standing alone on its own own merits. Mr. LABOUCHERE is probably justified in his belief that the proposed expropriation loan guarantee will not render home rule more acceptable to Whigs and Conservatives, but will make it less acceptable to the Radicals. The former would probably be better satisfied with restrictions protecting Irish landlords from expropriation by the Irish parliament. Expropriation anywhere is "a word of fear unpleasing to the landlord's ear." The Radicals, on the other hand, are probably looking forward to the ultimate expropriation of English land estates, and a debt of $600,000,000 on account of Irish expropriation might defer or defeat their English expropriation schemes.

EQUALIZATION.

The Jefferson City Tribune invites the attention of the Post-Disparch "to the fact that the State Board of Equalization Six months, postage paid...... 60 will proceed to equalize the taxable prop-All business or news letters or telegrams erty of the State in a few days." As Secretary McGrath, the member who has long "bossed" the proceedings of that board, recently informed the public that it never had attempted to equalize assessed valuations among the different counties, and saw no reason for changing its course in that respect, we fear that the Tribune's forecast of what the board will do is not authorized. We shall soon see. Kansas City's assessment for 1886, as returned by the city assessor, is $46,320,100 against, $31,-678,521-an increase of $14,641,579 in one year! And yet the Kansas City papers boast that this increased assess made on a 40 per cent basis, and that the actual market value of Kansas City's taxable property is over $115,000,000. There are plenty of rich counties in this state whose property is not assessed as high as 20 per cent of its market value, and here is St. Louis, whose assessment nobody estimates below 80 per cent. Many of her tax-payers know and can prove that their property is, and has been for years, assessed at more than 100 per cent of its market value. Such inequalities are contrary to the intent of the law and forbidden by its positive mandates. The State Board of Equalization is specially directed and Presidential timber. sworn to even up or even down these inequalities by equalizing the valuation among the different counties, and we shall be glad to see it make something AT a dividend meeting of the managers like an effort to discharge that sworn

THERE was a lively "rough and tumble" between EDMUNDS and BECK on Wednesday which strikingly illustrated one of the evils of considering nominations in executive session. They were in open session discussing the Edmunds resolution in regard to papers relating to suspensions. when BECK blurted out the statement that Duskin had been nominated by a Republican President in 1881, and that EDnomination; that Duskin's name had in fact been sent three times in vain to a Republican Senate by a Republican President; that EDMUNDS knew the reason why, and knew that President CLEVE-LAND had good reason for suspending DUSKIN; that the Senator from Vermont had, therefore, used the Duskin case to entrap the Administration into making a precedent of giving specific reasons for suspensions in all cases. EDMUNDS thereupon insisted that BECK was out of order and was violating the duty of spondence has become burdensomely large and exacting. session secrets. BECK replied that he could prove all he said from contemporary publications, from the records of the House of Representatives, and from public official documents filed in the office of Attorney-General BREWSTER. showing Duskin's complicity with STRO-BACK, the Marshal. Then, after a hot and heavy engagement, in which BECK turned the last laugh on EDMUNDS, the latter moved to go into executive session, wherein Mr. BECK moved that Mr. EDMUNDS committee be required to produce in open session the documents and proofs it had in the Duskin case as a vindication of Mr. BECK's statements. And thereupon Mr. EDMUNDS disayowed all intention to cast any aspersion upon the honor of Mr. BECK. whom he held in the highest esteem. The affair and the outcome of it show the use jurisdiction has been conferred upon any cover for sly, underhand work in the way of manipulating patronage.

Still Another.

Mayor Francis sat in his sanctum this morndrawings and surrounded by a number of well-known citizens, among whom could be seen the faces of Charles F. Joy, Rutledge & Horton, the real estate men; J. Williams and Mrs. H. M. Kimbali. The subject under discussion was the opening of Cabanne avenue from Hamilton avenue to De Hodiamont avenue. The opening of the street was opposed by the owners of property in Cabanne Place, on the ground that it would convert that beautiful suburb into a common thoroughfare and spoil its bright and clean appearance generally. The party proposed that the street be opened northwards to Maple avenue. The Mayor listened to both sides, and then gave them his usual assurance that he would look into it before signing the

THE SUN.

The Sun says: "Mr. Powderly makes no defense of the late violent assaults on the Chinamen, saying that 'they were not to blame; they were but the instruments in the hands of men who sought to degrade American free labor;' but he warns Congress that 'nothing short of the enactment of just laws and a full and impartial enforcement of the same will prevent other and far more terrible scenes of bloodshed and destruction.' The Chinese question, it will be seen, is one which inflames the indignation of American labor generally."

THE CITY HALL.

A case of brutality developed to-day in the office of the Mayor. A man named William Smith was brought up-stairs from the Health Department. His condition indicated that he was hopelessly insane. He was arrested last night by the police at Jefferson avenue and the railroad tracks and taken to the Central Police Station, where he was cared for for the time being.
Investigation on the part of the officers led to the discovery that the "authorities" at Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss of Troy N. Y. The prizes were very handsome, and Mrs. H. Elliott was fortunate enough to win the first prize. The second was won by empty box car and caged him in, informing Mr. Charles Fellett. The Health Commissioner was in a dilemma as to what to do with the man. The Mayor made a brief inquiry into the case, and ascertaining how matters stood, instructed Sergt. Me-Grew to ship the man back to Monmouth, in a more humane manner, however, than the one in which he had been sent.

A building permit was issued to-day to the Union Street Raiiroad Company to erect a $5,000 car shed on Lee avenue, between Grand and Obear avenues, for the use of the new Northern Central Line.

From the Boston Advertiser, February 27.

Every good citizen is interested in knowing how much noise the law will compel him to endure at the hands of his neighbors without redress, and many citizens who are not good will doubtless like to ascertain how much noise they can inflict upon their neighbors without fear of punishment. Several decisions bearing upon these points have lately been made by the courts. One broad principle, well established in the law of noise, both in this country and England, curiously illustrates the serious bent of our Anglo-Saxon nature, and that is the sharp distinction drawn between money making noises and those which are made in the pursuit of pleasure. The law is tender to a steam engine or a boilermaker, and will allow them to disturb a whole neighborhood with impunity, but it is severe upon a brass band or a game of skittles. The good citizen must be very wary about playing bowls or skittles in populous places. The Italians order this matter differently, and restrain black-smiths, boilermakers, etc., within some-tion than others, and are in the mans or "vibrating" themselves.

Residents in the Back Bay who are accustomed to pile drivers in their close vicinity may be said to have acquired the habit of vibrating, but we doubt if they have any "taste" for it. However this may be, the sum of the matter is that in the interest of trade or manufactures you may vibrate or deafen your neighbor with few restrictions, but that for purposes of pleasure your faculty of noise making must severely be repressed.

ALLEN OR ZEIGLER.

St. Louis Man Taken to Ohio To-Day on a Charge of Murder. Sheriff Leininger and Detective Dougleiser left this morning for Canton, O., with Mike Allen, the man arrested in this city on sus-December. 1877. The Ohio officers have all along been of the opinion that Mike Allen and Henry Zeigler were one and the same party, but the local authorities have held that Allen was not the right man. Several police officers stated that they had known him for the past twelve or fifteen years, and that during that period he had never been out of the city for any great length of time, while Zeigler, who is wanted in Ohio, worked on the canal boats there and lived in Massilon for some time. Allen claimed to have been working for Scott & Lynch here in December, 1877, at the time the murder was committed in Ohio, and said he had been pockmarked since he was 5 years old, while Zeigler when last seen had never had small-pox. A telegram was sent to the Chicago Small-pox Hospital, where he claimed to have once worked. It was found that he had been admitted to the hospital in April, 1892, as a patient suffering from small-pox, and after recovering worked in the institution until July 16, 1882. It was also found that his statement that he had been working for Scott & Lynch at the time of the murder was untrue, he never having been employed by them until 1879. Both the Ohio and St. Louis officials are now strongly impressed with the belief that Allen is the right man. If he is, matters are apt to go very hard with him, as the evidence against Zeigler is said to be most damaging. Allen was arrested about a month ago on information given to the police that he was Zeigler, but the party who gave the information afterward said that he was not certain that Allen was the man and the latter was released. He never made any attempt to leave the city, aithough he knew why he had been arrested. Zeigler's arms and hands were covered with tatoo marks, and so are Allen's are people at Massilon who can identify him positively, notwithstanding that he is now pockmarked. Cooper, the murdered man, was found on a towpath of the canal, and one of his gloves was afterward found in Zeigler's company, going toward the canal, and one of his glov December. 1877. brought Gen. Grant, he was never a suspicious man.

"He had the simplicity of a child, and with the faculty of clear seeing. In ISSI he knew little of politics, but I believe he knew better tham any man then living, who subsequently rose to distinction, the great issues which yere at stake in the war. He was prompt, quick, and had entire confidence in his own judgment. He never held a council of war. When a great question was given to him for consideration he went into secret session with himself. Then, having determined what he would do, he marched toward his purpose. The dominant element in Grant's character was his tenacity of purpose. He was born as resolute as a bulldog. In this respect he resembled closely Wellington, the Iron Duke. Since Grant died I have had a more kindly feeling for death than ever before. Somehow, I believe the grim slayer was moved by admiration for the soldier who was making such a splendid fight against him, and by the depth and majesty of the love that pushed his weary pen across the pages, held back his final shaft till the hero's work was done and his soul could pass away tranquilly, untroubled by thoughts of danger and poverty befalling his loved ones."

SIR HENRY JAMES.

LIBERAL WHO TOOK A DETERMINED STAND AGAINST THE PREMIER.

the Ex-Solicitor - General as a Great Ex-emplar of Morality and High-Thinking in Politics—How James Squared Himself with His Liberal Constituency.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, March 19.—The London correspondent of a morning paper, writing under date of March 4, says: A great reputation has been made here in England within the week, at which men are still marveling. The thing was a surprise all around. Everybody had an idea that Sir Henry James was a typical time-serving Whig politician, who would take preclous good care to look out for himself at whatever cost, and lo! he has blossomed forth as a great examplar of morality and high-thinking in polities. How general the amazement is may be gathered from the remark made to me yesterday by a friend—a Liberal andidate at the last election, who had jus eturned from a long Italian trip. He came to alk over the things which had happened to olitics during his absence. I mentioned Sir enry James.

A control time in the special base in the passes has he special base of the large man of the passes has he special base of the large man of the passes has he special base of the large man of the passes have been compared to the pas indgment of his constituents, and perhaps escaped the director forms of censure. But he could not have done that and retained his own relif-respect. He was not going to leave the Liberal party. He was not going to enter "a cave." He was deeply anxious that Mr. Gladstone's premiership should be crowned with success, but he did not believe in home rule, and he would have been faise to the electors of Bury had he accepted the office in a government whose drift was so manifestly in that direction. At the conclusion of his speech the meeting unanimously, and with cheers, passed a vote of confidence. I am conscious that the reader will discover nothing remarks able in this brief extract of the speech listelf. The speaker said simply the things which, under the circumstances, a conscientious man ought obviously to have said. But the surprise lay in the revelation that Sir Henry James was such a man. The speech lifted him at once to the limited rank of English political thought.

For a while there was the usual connubial bilss, but the ideal of Edward's heart became fascinated with roller-skating and was anything but pleasant to the young husband, whose early religious training had aught him to look with disfavor on such resorts. In vain did he plead with his young wife to desist from the folly of her ways and to take her gymnastic exercise with the bread roller instead of the roller skate. At last, in October, Edward took leave of his fair young readed, he loved her still, and resolved that if he could not have her love no other man should. One day about a week or so after the sad separation, Edward met the erstwhile ornament of his humble little.

Several judges and give a "Mikado" cup and saucer with four many lawyers were among the listeners and the students of Yale Law School were present in strong force. The suit was brought nearly two years ago on the ground that Merwin had publicly accused Page of being the father of Jennie L. Downs' child. Miss Downs was the ward of Merwin and was a servant in his family at Woodbridge for several months. In the latter part of 1884 she gave birth to a child and efforts were made to ascertain its parentage. When the birth return was made Miss Downs named Page as the father, thereby exciting great indignation against him. He strenuously denied the charge, but was everywhere mot by the accusations of Merwin and Miss Downs that he had betrayed her. He accordingly brought suit for $5,000 damages, and after two delivers that Prof. Robinson was obliged to suspend recitations yeaterday. William C.
